

Marie Skłodowska-Curie Fellowships at the Institute of Criminology at the Faculty of Law in Ljubljana, Slovenia

1. About the research organization

The Institute of Criminology at the Faculty of Law invites researchers from abroad to apply for a Marie Skłodowska-Curie Individual Fellowship (MSCA - IF - EF). The MSCA - IF - EF allows the best and most promising researchers from Europe to conduct a research project in a host institution in Europe.

Established in 1954, the Institute of Criminology at the Faculty of Law is one of the oldest criminological institutes in Europe and was the first criminological institute in former Yugoslavia. Over the past six decades, it has completed more than 250 national and international projects and continued to accumulate important criminological primary resources and documentation.

The Institute of Criminology promotes interdisciplinary research in the fields of social sciences and humanities. Its core academic disciplines are criminology, law, sociology and philosophy.

2. Our supervisors and research topics

Renata Salecl is a philosopher and sociologist. She is a Senior Counsellor at the Institute of Criminology. She is a Professor at the School of Law, Birkbeck College, University of London, and a Recurring Visiting Professor at Cardozo School of Law in New York. She is the author of many monographs, including The Spoils of Freedom (Routledge 1994), (Per)versions of Love and Hate (Verso, 1998), On Anxiety (Routledge 2004), Tyranny of Choice (Profile Books 2010). Her books have been translated into more than 10 languages. She also writes commentaries for the leading Slovenian daily newspaper Delo. In recent years, she has been named Slovenian Woman Scientist of the Year as well as Woman of the Year.

She encourages candidates for the MSC Fellowship to apply in the fields of philosophy, Lacanian psychoanalysis and sociology.

Aleš Završnik is a Senior Research Fellow at the Institute of Criminology and Associate Professor at the Faculty of Criminal Justice and Security in Maribor. He has researched and published extensively in the field of law, crime and technology (e.g. cybercrime, cyber-law and surveillance, CCTV, privacy and personal data protection). Currently, he leads a research group "Law in the age of big data" supported by the Slovenian Research Agency (2014-2017). He is a member of the editorial board of the Masaryk University Journal of Law and Technology.

He encourages candidates for the MSC Fellowship to apply in the following fields: personal data protection regulation, big data and law, cyber surveillance and other domains of surveillance, surveillance powers of intelligence services.

Matjaž Ambrož is Associate Professor at the Faculty of Law in Ljubljana. He has researched and published in the fields of substantive criminal law (general part, special part as well as criminal policy), prison law (implementation of penal sanctions) and international criminal law. He is author of monographs Perpetration and Participation in Criminal Law (2014) and Criminal Act and Its Value Elements (2007). He is a co-author of several text books, and author of two books of essays.

He encourages candidates for the MSC Fellowship to apply in the fields of criminal law and criminal policy.

Primož Gorkič is Assistant Professor at the Faculty of Law in Ljubljana. He has researched and published in the fields of criminal procedure and evidence, human rights, policing and EU criminal law. He is currently lecturing on criminal procedure and criminal Investigation and is involved with a research project "Law in the age of big data." He is the editor-in-chief for Zbornik znanstvenih razprav (Journal of Legal Studies, Ljubljana Faculty of Law).

He encourages candidates to apply for the MSC fellowship in the fields of criminal procedure and evidence, privacy law in the context of surveillance and EU criminal law.

Matjaž Jager holds a doctorate in law and a master degree in philosophy. He is a Professor of criminology at the University of Ljubljana Law School, a Senior Research Fellow at the Institute and its Director.

He encourages candidates for the MSC Fellowship to apply in the following fields: criminology, the relation between law and (Kantian) ethics, philosophy of criminal law, white collar and organized/organizational crime, law and emotions.

Sašo Dolenc is a physicist and philosopher. He is a researcher at the Institute of Criminology. His primary research interest is philosophy and history of science and technology. He is the author of several single-authored monographs, including The Man Who Counted Infinity and The Genius That Never Existed. He is a co-founder and the editor in chief of the popular online science journal Kvarkadabra (www.kvarkadabra.net), whose mission is to explain science in a simple, attractive and fun form.

He encourages candidates to apply for the MSC Fellowship in the fields of philosophy and history of science and technology.

Dragan Petrovec is a Senior Counsellor at the Institute of Criminology. He teaches penology at the Faculty of Law in Ljubljana, criminology and criminal law at Faculty of Social Work in Ljubljana, and crime Policy at the Faculty of Criminal Justice and Security in Maribor. His research fields are penology, punishment and corrections, treatment of offenders, crime policy and philosophy of punishment. Before starting his academic career, he worked for ten years in prisons, thus gaining significant experience in this field. He encourages candidates for the MSC Fellowship to apply in the fields of penology, crime policy, and philosophy of punishment.

Zoran Kanduč is a Senior Counsellor at the Institute of Criminology. He is Associate Professor at the Faculty of Criminal Justice and Security in Maribor. He has researched, published and lectured in the fields of sociology and philosophy of criminal law, radical criminology, criminological theory and theory of class control and class ("structural") violence. He is the author of many books, including Criminology: straight and deviant ways of the science of straight and deviant ways, Beyond Crime and Punishment, Subject and object of social control in the context of post-modern transitions and Politics, Law, Economy and Crime: criminological reflections of post-modern society and culture. He encourages candidates interested in the following themes to apply for the MSC Fellowship: economic crime, corruption, family violence, violence of capital and capitalist ("competition") state and its law, informal social (particularly class and sex) control, repressive use of technology, media manipulations, "victimless" crime, role of neoliberal ideology in criminological theory and crime policy.

Mojca M. Plesničar is Assistant Professor at the University of Ljubljana. She teaches Criminology and English legal terminology. She has researched and published in the fields of sentencing, punishment and imprisonment, psychology and law, women and crime, and juvenile justice. She currently researches within two current Institute's projects, "Law in the age of big data" and "A systemic approach to peer violence in educational institutions".

Candidates interested in sentencing and broader questions of punishment are welcome to apply for the MSC Fellowship.

3. About the application procedure

Who can apply?

Researchers who completed a doctorate or have gained at least 4 years of full-time research experience after graduation.

Applications are not possible with an institution where the researcher has already been resident or worked for more than 12 months in the 3 years before the final submission date.

Which topic can be funded?

All Marie Skłodowska-Curie actions have a bottom-up approach, i.e. research fields are chosen freely by the applicants. All domains of research and technological development are eligible for funding (except areas of research covered by the EURATOM Treaty). The applications to the Institute of Criminology at the Faculty of Law in Ljubljana should be in line with its research programme.

What is the duration of the project?

The duration of MSCA European Fellowships (Standard EFs) is between 12 to 24 months.

What does the grant support?

The researcher is provided with a basic monthly salary and a mobility grant. Host institutions receive a grant for indirect costs and an additional contribution for research materials.

INSTITUTE OF CRIMINOLOGY

at the Faculty of law Ljubljana

The unit costs are divided into two groups: researcher unit costs and institutional unit costs. One unit is defined as one person-month.

	Researcher unit cost in EUR person/month			Institutional unit cost in EUR person/month
	Living Allowance	Mobility Allowance	Family Allowance	Research, training and networking costs	Management and indirect costs
Individual Fellowships	4,650*	600	500	800	650

4,650* / per month - This amount is then adjusted through the application of a country correction coefficient for the cost of living according to the country in which the beneficiary is located. The correction factor for Slovenia is 86,1 %.

Useful websites:

Institute of Criminology at the Faculty of Law, Ljubljana, Slovenia:

<http://www.inst-krim.si/>

Marie Skłodowska-Curie Individual Fellowship:

https://ec.europa.eu/research/mariecurieactions/about/individual-fellowships_en

If you are interested in applying for a Marie Skłodowska-Curie Fellowship (MSCA - IF - EF) with the Institute of Criminology at the Faculty of Law in Ljubljana, please send us your CV with publications and a short description of your research idea (max. 2,000 characters, with spaces) to: inst.crim@pf.uni-lj.si

Deadline for expression of interest: 1 May 2017

Deadline for submission of application: 14 September 2017